FROM NORTHERN IDAHO

From the Lewiston Journal of the 23d ult we get the following:

INDIAN HIGHWAYMEN.

On Thursday last, Mr George Brown, who has been a miner for two or three years last past on the Palouse river, about forty miles north of this place, was on his journey from there to here on horseback and leading another horse with a riding saddle on. When about three miles from this city the horse that he was leading became frightened and broke loose from him. He however, recovered the horse, and the saddle freed from the animal, loosing the blanket only. He then proceeded onward carrying the saddle on his shoulder a short distance, when he met two Indians who stopped him and struck him over the eye which stunned him. On his resuscitation he found that he had been robbed of thirty eight dollars and the saddle that he was carrying.

He came to the city about midnight and reported the occurrence to Sheriff Berry, who instituted plans on Friday morning for the capture of the Indians. One was taken and brought to jail, and the other, who in turn, had robbed his accomplice, had fled. He is being pursued and will doubtless be caught. This is a new thing for these Indians to do and must be summarily suppressed in some way or other.

ORO FINO.

Expressman Fettis now makes regular trips to Pierce City. He reports the miners very busy at work. There is, however, an enterprise in contemplation by the parties interested which, if carried out, will make North Idaho camp No. 1 again bloom and blossom as the rose—a new large ditch to bring sufficient water at a heighth to be available for working their hills there. The hills about Pierce city prospect better than ever the creek flats or bottoms did. It will require capital to accomplish the work in view, but if the right parties take hold of the matter properly and organize, the money can be procured upon a proper showing.

WARREN'S.

Hunt, of Hunt & Hart's express to Warren's camp, arrived and departed since our last. He will make weekly trips soon, the trail being nearly in condition to admit of the entire route being made on horseback. Warren's is filling up fast with miners, and things generally begin to assume a cheerful business like appearance. Quite a number of persons were on their way there, and several trains were wending their way thitherward. The stocks of goods now going in will give encouragement to quartz claim owners, who have waited to be able to prosecute their work of the development of ledges at a reasonable cost to themselves.

The New York Democracy on the Bond Question.

From the New York News.

The breach that is occurring in the Democracy of this State, in regard both to the bond question and the nomination for the Presidency, has a further illustration in the report of the Assembly Committee on Federal Relations. This document was adopted by the Assembly on the eve of its adjournment, every Democrat, the Argus tells us, voting in the affirmative. And the position it assumes commits the party, as represented in the Legislature, beyond dispute to the general principle which Mr. Pendleton advocates.

The report asserts broadly that the principal of the bonds is payable in the currency of the country. The contrary doctrine—that they are redeemable only in gold—it denounces as an usurpation more dangerous than the exemption of bonds from taxation, as an assumption at variance with the tenor of the enactment, and as "rendered more insolent by the course of Congress in keeping the currency in a determined state. That there may be no room for misinterpretation as to the view of the committee or the purpose of the party in whose name it speaks, we quote a subsequent paragraph:

"It is not the policy of the Democratic party to trifle with the public credit. Its history is that of a hard money party—a party which has paid off both State and national debts. Its representatives have voted to pay off our State debt in the specie in which it was contracted. It is pledged to meet the obligations of the government with perfect faith and literal fidelity. It will seek by economies to reduce the burdens of government, and curtail those extravagances which, even more than the debt, weigh upon the resources of the nation. It will not debauch the currency in order to defraud the public creditors, and all other creditors, but it will extinguish public obligations, when it comes into power, in such currency as Congress shall give to the people to meet ordinary obligations between them."

Between the committee and Mr Pendleton one point of difference is here apparent. The Ohio leader while disclaiming inflation, is not unfavorable to additional issues of currency, subject to restrictions which he has defined. The Assembly Committee, on the contrary, condemns new issues on the ground that they would add to the depreciation of the currency and so make bad worse. On the more vital point of redeeming the bonds, the two are in perfect agreement. The committee pledge the Democratic party "when it comes into power," to extinguish the public obligations "in such currency as Congress shall give the people, to meet ordinary obligations between them." The New York Democracy, therefore, takes its place by the side of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and California, and to those States the first choice of the party is Pendleton.

These expressions of opinion and purpose on the part of the Democracy in this State mark more plainly than anything that has transpired the growth of a family feud, which promises to end in the setting aside of Mr. Belmont and the overthrow of the influence of which he is the acknowledged exponent. The World, which has battled with admirable courage and consistency against the Pendleton heresy, insists that New York shall lead in the arrangements for the Presidential nomination and sustains the Chairman of the National Committee in opposition to those who are revolting against his management. The publication of the Assembly report, however, shows that the anti-Belmont element preponderates even in this State, where Democracy is evidently prepared to adopt as one plank in the platform the Western resolves touching the bonds and the bondholders. Governor Seymour, according to his last Albany speech, may choose either side without compromising himself very seriously.

Dana's Life of Grant.

Charles A. Dana, late Assistant Secretary of War, and present editor of the New York Sun, is bringing out a Life of General Grant which, judging from specimen pages before us will be an able and interesting book. It will be introduced in Oregon by James Dewing, who is connected with the California publishers, Francis Dewing & Co. Of the forthcoming book the Springfield, (Mass.) Republican says:

No more competent hands, in literary ability and experience and intelligence upon the subject matter, could be entrusted with such a volume. Mr Dana was at Gen. Grant's headquarters, as the representative of the War Department during all the notable Vicksburg campaign, it was through his representatives that Gen. Grant was retained in his command till victory settles all doubts as to his wisdom and ability, he became intimately acquainted with his personal life and character, and, so far as we know, was the first to predict for Gen. Grant the position and career now upon and before them. As early as the summer of 1863 we remember Mr. Dana's giving us our first true impression of Gen. Grant's character and confidently predicting that he would be Mr. Lincoln's successor in the Presidency. The volume he will write is sure to be authentic, it cannot fail to reveal the secrets of the war, and of Gen. Grant's association with it known to Mr. Dana through his position in the War Department and his peculiar intimacy with his hero, and as a popular campaign biography, it is certain to be of the first interest and value.

Charles Dickens' expenses in America were $50,000, and his net profit $100,000 in gold. He carried off three large packing cases full of all sorts of presents.

Philadelphia has never produced a wealthy theatrical manager. Population considered it is a very poor town for amusements and Baltimore is worse.

Browning, the poet, writes a firm, clear and even script-hand, whereas the writing of Tennyson is a marvel of ink snarls and hieroglyphics.

City Aid to Railroads

[Our purpose in publishing the following letter is simply to give the writer a chance to make his views known, and must not be understood as thereby approving them.—Ed. Oregonian.]

Editor Oregonian:

As one of the tax-payers of this city I desire to offer a few suggestions to the people of the city bearing upon the question whether this city should extend any further aid to railroads and other public improvements.

I desire to treat the subject fairly, and I am willing to go as far as any other citizen, in the way of encouragement by the city or State, to these internal improvements, but I think we ought to be "just before we are generous," just to the tax payer before generous to others. I freely admit the great importance and benefits of railroads, but money can be expended unwisely and improperly in the projecting of too many, or improperly located, railroads, as well as in building houses for which there are no tenants or business, and a little prudent reflection will not hurt the body politic or the tax payer, at this time.

The City Council has already obligated the city to pay interest on two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the West Side Company's Bonds. I make no objection to this, it was asked for by nine tenths of the voters and tax payers of the city, the taxes to pay this interest has been cheerfully paid in. The road is being constructed through a section of undeveloped country where it will open up new regions for our city trade, and where it is believed the road will pay.

In addition to this, the company which asked it is the oldest company, came first for our aid, confessed their want of our assistance, and received it. Because we have aided this company it does not follow that the city must give half a million dollars to every other company which may choose to incorporate, without examination or question of the propriety of its route, or the importance of its enterprise. If such is to be the rule, it will not be six months till companies will be knocking at the City Council for aid to a road to the Dalles, to Puget Sound, Astoria and Humboldt. It is urged that because we have aided one company we ought to aid the other, because we have aided the West side company we ought to aid the East side company. This is no reason at all. That is not the way business men decide business questions. The West side company asked aid on its own merits, because its road would pay, was well located, would develop new territory, was entitled to the land grant and State aid, had been aided by the people in the country and still needed aid, and it was believed that it would succeed. If we aid every company because we aided one, there will be no end to these demands on the tax payers, and we would soon be ruined. There is a time to stop, and justice and prudence say now.

But how stands the case with the application made to the City Council by the East side company? Instead of asking for the same aid asked for by the old company, they demand nearly three times as much. They ask the City Council for eight hundred and forty thousand dollars gold coin, and want us to commence paying it before they have expended five thousand dollars on the construction of their road, and before they show that the people along their proposed route will aid them with a dollar. As this interest on six hundred thousand dollars of their bonds, is a very heavy business transaction for this country, it is proper that it should be examined with the same care that any of our wholesale dealers would examine the application of a new customer who asks for credit. There is no use of being modest, and besides that the taxpayers of this city cannot afford to let the matter go unquestioned.

Why does this East side Company ask this city for aid? It is well known and cannot be denied by the officers of the Company, that this company now asking our aid, have, up to within the last two months, told the public that they wanted no aid from Oregon. Mr. Perine, the accidental agent of the contractors, told the committee of seventeen last winter, that their company wanted nothing from Portland or Oregon. Within the last three weeks, this East side Company has issued a pamphlet addressed "To the People of Oregon," a copy of which I have seen and read, and in their financial statement contained in this pamphlet, they state in positive, unequivocal terms, that the Company has borrowed nine tenths of the cost of the road at the East.

We do not desire to impeach this statement of the twenty one directors of this company, and assume it to be a fact. If it is true, it looks to me as if they ought to spend some of that money before they ask the tax payers of Oregon for anything. That is more money than they can spend this year or next year, and more money than is needed to construct and equip their road from Portland to Eugene City. If their statement is not true, then they have placed themselves beyond our sympathy, and ought not to be aided by the city or any one, because persons who will make such statements cannot be trusted.

But as an investment for the city, to the extent of a single dollar, I insist that we cannot go into this east side road. Their road is not well located as they propose it. They propose to run right along the river, and come in competition with the river all the time. The boats will always do all the business between here and Oregon City, and everything but the passengers between here and Salem the year round. They go then to Albany and thence to Corvalis, leaving the great prairies in Linn county out, and getting over on the territory of the west side road. Neither Portland nor the State Legislature can afford to encourage such business as that. If they must have aid of Portland and the State, let them stay on their own side of the river, and not attempt to forestall and cripple the west side road by inveighing its natural supporters into an alliance with them, but let them so locate their road on the east side, that it will develope the country remote from the river, and which needs transportation. This is right; it is justice to all the interests of the State, and it is the plain dictates of all the wants of the country.

A railroad from Portland to Salem, on the line proposed by this Company, won't pay. It would break Vanderbilt up to run it a great while, and hence I say that neither the City Council nor the State Legislature, has any right to impose any more taxes upon the people to invest in it, as it would be a useless waste of the money. It is all very fine to talk about "two railroads," and "the more railroads the better," &c., but Oregon is not old enough for that yet, nor is Portland. Just look at it. Portland is just starting, and it wont do to cripple her with unprofitable taxes. Oregon is in its infancy, and one railroad is as much as the State can now afford to aid. Our State, county and city taxes in Portland amounts to twenty five mills on the dollar, and this East Side Company's tax would add ten mills more. It cannot be lawfully levied either, because the charter limits the Council to fifteen mills on the dollar, and this aid to the East Side Company with the other taxes would far exceed that limit. It is argued that Portland needs the bridge across the river. I do not think so. The population and business of the county does not demand a bridge costing four hundred thousand dollars—the sum asked to build it by the East Side Company. When we need a bridge, let Multnomah county build it. It is quite as important to the people of the East side as to those on the West side, and according to the estimate of the Engineer of the East Side Company, it can be constructed for forty thousand dollars, and thus make a vast saving.

I want Salem to have railroad accommodations, but that city can secure it by a short branch to the West Side road, costing them but little. And besides that, Salem will prosper far more as a terminus of a branch, than on a through line. A terminus concentrates trade at that point, while a through line distributes and divides it among a half dozen way stations, and Salem would be nothing more than that on a through line. Salem property holders and business men ought to examine this question. The West Side road will make Albany a point, and that will concentrate Linn county trade and build up a city there. It is clear to my mind that Portland can't make anything in an investment in an East side road; and a business view of the matter is the only way we ought to look at it.

There is another view of this question which commends itself to our attention. When too many irons are in the fire, some will burn. If we encourage more roads than we can support don't we run the chance of killing them? If we have more money to spare had we not better concentrate it in one road, rush it through and get the benefit of it, rather than to start two or three more rivals, to have them all in contention, and finally languish and die? Common business sense says one road at a time. Then let us not [illegible] the one we have already invested money in by encouraging any rival. Let us make the first road a perfect success first. We can [illegible] influence in its behalf, and at the same time promote the interests of the country and [illegible] up our city, and this is our duty and interest as citizens and tax payers.

TAX-PAYER.

Portland, May 30th, 1868.

North Carolina Reconstructed.

[From the Chicago Trib[illegible].]

North Carolina has undoubtedly ratified the new Constitution and elected the [illegible] ticket, both by large majorities. This gratifying termination of the contest is not the result of negro votes or negro preponderance in that State, for the white population and voters are fully twice as great as the black, nor is it in consequence of disfranchising any considerable number of [illegible]. The total population of North Carolina is about 1,000,000, of whom 650,000 are whites and [illegible]000 are colored. 170,000 votes were [illegible] at the Presidential election in 1860, [illegible] 100,000 were cast, showing that at the [illegible]tion a full vote of both whites and [illegible] was polled. The complete returns will give the Constitution not less than 25,000 majority. The great bulk of the old Whig party, which was bitterly opposed to secession and sympathized with the Union cause throughout the [illegible], voted for the new Constitution, and have joined the great Republican party. It is safe to say that two fifths of the white voters of North Carolina are Republicans. Their strength, reinforced by the colored vote, renders the old North State Republican hereafter by a heavy majority.

From the returns already reported we select the following counties in which the white population largely preponderates over the [illegible], and yet these counties give majorities for the new Constitution and the Republican ticket. In some of them, as in Guilford, Forsythe and Davidson, the whites outnumber the blacks from six to ten times, yet these counties give large Republican majorities, viz:

Counties	Whites.	Colored.	Rep. Maj.
Guilford	15,787	3,966	[illegible]
Forsythe	[illegible]710	1,902	700
Wilkes	13,990	1,361	[illegible]
McDowell	6,342	1,440	300
Davidson	3,276	1,346	[illegible]
Cumberland	8,584	5,850	[illegible]
Burk	6,646	2,461	226
Washington	3,103	2,616	406
Wake (Raleigh)	16,445	10,722	[illegible]
Craven	5,744	6,757	2,000

In a number of other counties reported against the Constitution, the majority is far less than the white preponderance. In some of these, where the blacks outnumber the whites, the majority is against the Constitution, showing that a portion of the blacks voted with the Democrats; but probably more than nine-tenths of them voted the Republican ticket.

The return of no rebel State will be [illegible] with more hearty good will than North Carolina. It is known that she was dragged out of the Union against her own free will by [illegible] coercion, and that she never engaged in the rebellion with the bitter hate of the Union which animated the rebels in most of the [illegible] States. In the work of [illegible] a larger proportion of the white [illegible] it than in any other State. [illegible] ted. The work has been thoroughly and well done in North Carolina, and there should be no delay in admitting her delegation as soon as they knock at the doors of Congress. The old North State is as sure for General Grant as [illegible] Illinois.

How infinitely superior in every respect is the present reconstruction of North Carolina to the reconstruction attempted to be [illegible] it by Andrew Johnson? It was on North Carolina that he made his first experiment. He began by disfranchising 70,000 loyal Union men, and he next placed the 45,000 white Union men under the complete dominion of 60,000 rebel Democrats, thus giving six rebels the political power of [illegible] Unionists. He ordered the election of [illegible] to form a new constitution without first submitting to the people the question whether they wanted a new constitution. Not a third of the [illegible] took part in the election. The new [illegible] framed by this bogus [illegible] was never submitted to the people for ratification, and was therefore never adopted; yet Andrew Johnson declared it to be the lawful and binding constitution of the State of North Carolina! and he caused eight more constitutions to be manufactured in the other rebel States after the pattern of his North Carolina model.

The people of North Carolina [illegible] the Congressional plan of reconstruction by 50,000 majority, and elected a convention to make a new constitution; they have now ratified the work of their convention by 15,000 majority, and established the true Democratic principle in their fundamental law, that all citizens are equal before the law, and shall possess equal political rights and privileges, and the combined efforts of copperheadism and rebellion will never be able to eradicate that divine principle from the organic law of the State of North Carolina.

Miss Louise Simpson, a wealthy old [illegible] lady, who recently died in Pittsburg, provided in her will a fund for the support of her dog, and ordered her horse to be killed for fear he [illegible] not be treated well by other owners.

Multnomah County.

The result in Multnomah county has astonished everybody. But after the battle is lost it is easy to see how the failure occurred. It is a regular break down here. Nothing like it has occurred in any county in the State. This [illegible] owing to several causes which are well understood by all who witnessed the operations in Portland on election day. There is a voting population in this city whose votes were manipulated and influenced by "thimble-riggers," in favor of the Democratic ticket. This population is constantly increasing in numbers. A portion of these unstable [illegible] voted with the Union party during the war, [illegible] by its glories and held by the propensity which such people have to stick to the popular side. But the natural place for this [illegible], who, in general vote without knowing, and in many cases without caring, what they are voting for, is in the Democratic party. The Union strength in the city is within a few votes of the number thrown two years ago, showing that scarcely any actual [illegible] have taken place. The Democratic [illegible] is 145 larger than then. Every citizen of Portland knows that the resident population of the city is little, if any larger than in 1866. There were not less than 100 illegal votes [illegible] here on Monday, and in many [illegible] the fraudulent voting was of the [illegible] and shameless character. In North Portland 327 votes were thrown and Smith got 181 [illegible]. This precinct is a small [illegible] of the city, and every resident knows that [illegible] like so many actual voters can be [illegible]. Everybody voted who had a mind to. One Union man challenged and turned out twenty-five Democrats offering to vote in North Portland, and about an hour after found a dozen of the very same persons in line and voting at the old Theater on Stark street. Most of the policemen appointed by the [illegible], of whom there were thirty or forty, [illegible] throughout the day with the utmost [illegible] exerting themselves to get Democrats up to the polls and countenancing the [illegible] of their party friends to keep Republicans back. If a Republican protested against such an invasion of his rights he was [illegible] still or he would be marched off to jail. The special police, instead of devoting themselves to the duty of keeping the peace and protecting the rights of voters, [illegible] all day with all their might for the [illegible] ticket. On the Republican side [illegible] no adequate preparation to [illegible] the tools of their opponents, and the [illegible] that towards evening the Democrats [illegible] anything, no matter where from, [illegible] intelligence enough to hold up a [illegible] to take the oath. Every departing [illegible] is now carrying away large numbers of "[illegible] Democrats" by whose votes Portland was "redeemed."

The State.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

In Washington county the whole Union ticket is elected by an increased majority. On the county ticket, the lowest majority is 150, and the highest 238. Logan has 147 majority, Upton 167, and Gibbs 165. Cornelius received 170 majority for Joint Senator.

YAMHILL COUNTY.

Yamhill elects the whole Union ticket by an average of 30 majority. The majority for Logan is 21.

COLUMBIA COUNTY.

Two precincts in Columbia, St. Helens and [illegible] give Smith 12 majority, and Trimble and [illegible], respectively, 13 and 15.

WASCO COUNTY.

[illegible] from this county are very conflicting. The Democrats here claim 200 majority for Smith and the election of the whole Democratic county ticket. On the other hand we have the following note from the D[illegible]: "We have elected the whole People's ticket in this county without doubt. Trevitt and his crowd have met with a disastrous [illegible]. Lockwood is elected Senator by at [illegible] majority. Smith's majority will be about 75."

A dispatch from Wasco, dated last evening, says that the Democrats have carried their [illegible] majority, excepting, possibly, the State Senator, which cannot be determined until full returns are in. Dalles gave Smith 259 and Logan 168.

CLATSOP COUNTY.

The Union ticket is elected by 30 majority in Clatsop County.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY.

Logan has a small majority in Clackamas, Upton has 32 majority and Gibbs 19.

THE FOURTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

There is little doubt of the election of Upton in this District. The race between Reed and Gibbs is very close, and it seems probable that the official count will be necessary to determine it.

In reply to Gen. Halpine's ("Miles O'Reilly") strictures on Pendleton and the Peace Democracy, and especially the General's assertion that "there is such a thing as being too infernally Democratic to be wholesome," Vallandingham blows this blast through his Democratic horn, the Dayton Ledger: "We say to 'War Democrats' of the Marble-Halpine school, that they only waste breath, and paper and ink, if they imagine that their threats, or their vows, or their oaths, meet with anything but contempt from the more than a million of 'actual, positive, unconverted and undeniable peace men,' in the West and the border States South. We are of that sort ourself, precisely; and all around in this valley for fifty miles, there is scarcely any other kind to be found; and in the State of Ohio, especially, they number 187,000, with nearly five years' increase to be added."

We are informed that a steamboat was sent to Milwaukie on Monday afternoon by the Democratic managers and a load of voting cattle brought here to help their ticket. The "freight" brought down was known at Milwaukie and was not allowed to vote there. They were not citizens of the State, and as the Republicans at Milwaukie had their names, they were brought to Portland to assist in "the great Democratic reaction." At a late hour at night the steamer carried its freight back to Milwaukie, drunken, limp and stentorous.

An old resident of Vermont, ninety-seven years old, wears a coat, the cloth of which was woven one hundred and thirty years ago, and is in a tolerable state of preservation yet.

STATE ITEMS.

We learn by letter from Express Harch that on the 26th ult. the Indians stole a band of horses out of a corral at Amelia City in Baker county. Six or seven men started in pursuit of the thieves and came upon them in a canyon putting into the Malheur river. The Indians were in ambush and fired upon the party, killing a young man named Belknap and severely wounding another man whose name our correspondent does not give. There were eighteen Indians in the band.

The ditch company at Shasta are about to put 100 Chinamen at work upon the big ditch so as to complete it for the next summer's work.

Snow fell at La Grande on the 29th of May. The Times says that grain in that locality "does not thrive as it would like to see it."

A man named G. G. Richardson lately disappeared from Walla Walla, owing $15,000 which he had obtained from credulous persons by various "confidence" dodges. A part of the money belonged to a citizen of Portland.

Waiting Developments.

The "Democracy" have elected a Congressman, and have control of the Legislature. The State is almost wholly in their hands. What they will do with their victory we have no means of knowing. We propose to await developments. Whether they will resolve, in pursuance of the "time-honored principles," that Oregon, having been wrongfully dealt with by the General Government, ought to "resume her delegated powers" and secede from the Union, can only be told by awaiting their future movements. Presuming, however, that they have not wholly forgotten where they stood when last in power, we shall look for an early re-assertion of the "time-honored principles," and, may be, the taking of steps to carry them into execution.

Sorosis.

ALICE CAREY ON THE OBJECT OF THE "WOMAN'S CLUB" IN NEW YORK.

[From the New York World, May 5.]

At the second regular meeting of the "Woman's Club," which took place yesterday at Delmonico's, the following inaugural remarks were made by the President, Miss Alice Cary, who presided in person for the first time:

LADIES: As it will not be expected of me to make speeches very often, hereafter, I think I may presume on your indulgence if I take advantage of this one opportunity. Permit me, then, in the first place, to thank you for the honor you have done me in assigning to me the President's chair. Why I should have been chosen when there so many among you greatly more competent to fill the position, I am at a loss to understand; unless, indeed, it be owing to the fact that I am to most of you a stranger, and your imaginations have clothed me with qualities not my due. This you would soon discover for yourselves; I mention it only to bespeak your forbearance, though in this regard, I ventured almost to anticipate your lenity, inasmuch as you all know how untrained to business habits, how ignorant of rules of order, and how unused to executive management most women are.

If I take my seat, therefore, without confidence, it is not without the hope of attaining through your generous kindness and encouragement, to better things. "A woman's club! Who ever heard of the like? What do women want of a club? Have you any aims or objects?" These are question which have been propounded to me day after day since this project was set afoot; by gentlemen, of course. And I have answered that, in our humble way, we were striving to imitate their example. You have your exclusive clubs, I have said, and why should not we have ours? What is so promotive of your interests cannot be detrimental to us; and that you find these reunions helpful to yourselves and beneficial to society, we cannot doubt.

You gentlemen profess to be our representatives—to represent us better than we could possibly represent ourselves—therefore, we argue, it cannot be that you are attracted by grand rooms, furniture, luxurious dinners and suppers, expensive wines and cigars, the bandying of poor jests, or the excitement of the gaming table. Such dishonoring suspicions as these are not to be entertained for a moment.

Of our own knowledge, I have said, we are not able to determine what special agencies you employ for your advantage and ours in your deliberative assemblies, for it has not been thought best for our interests that we should not even sit at your tables, let alone share your councils; and doubtless, therefore, in our blindness and ignorance, we have made some pitiful mistakes.

In the first place, we have "tipped the teapot." This is a hard saying—the head and front of the charges brought against us, and we cannot but acknowledge its justice and its force; we are, in fact, weighed down with shame and humiliation, and impelled, while we are about it, to make full and free confession of all our wild and guilty phantasies. We have then, to begin at the beginning, proposed the inculcation of deeper and broader ideas among women, proposed to teach them to think for themselves and get their opinions at first hand, not so much because it is their right as because it is their duty. We have also proposed to open out new avenues of employment to women—to make them less dependent and less burdensome—to lift them out of unwomanly self-distrust and disqualifying diffidence into womanly self-respect and self-knowledge. To teach them to make all work honorable, by each doing the share that falls to her, or that she may work out to herself agreeably to her own special aptitude, cheerfully and faithfully—not going down to it but bringing it up to her. We have proposed to enter our protest against all idle gossip, against all demoralizing and wicked waste of time; also, against the follies and the tyrannies of fashion, against all external impositions; in short, against each and every thing that opposes the full development and use of the faculties conferred upon us by our Creator.

We have proposed to lessen the antagonism existing between men and women by the use of every rightful means in our power; by standing upon our divine warrantee and saying and doing what we are able to say and to do, without asking leave and without suffering hindrance. Not for the exclusive good of our own sex, for we hold that there is no exclusive, and no separate good—what injures my brother injures me, and what injures me, injures him, if he could but be made to know it; it injures him whether or not he is made to know it. Such, I have said, are some of our objects and aims. We do not pretend as yet, to have carefully digested plans and clearly defined courses. We are like children feeling our way in the dark, for it must be remembered that it is not yet half a century since free schools, even in the most enlightened portions of our country, were first opened to girls. How, then, should you expect of us the fulness of wisdom which you for whole centuries have been gathering from schools, colleges, and the exclusive knowledge and management of affairs.

We admit our short-comings, but we do feel, gentlemen, that in spite of them, an honest, earnest, and unostentatious effort toward broader culture and nobler life, is entitled to a heartier and more sympathetic recognition than we have as yet received from you anywhere; even our representatives here at home, the leaders of the New York press, have failed in that magnanimity which we have been accustomed to attribute to them.

If we could have foreseen the sneers and sarcasms with which we have been met, they of themselves would have constituted all sufficient reasons for the establishment of this woman's club; as it is, they have established a strong impulse towards its continuance and final perpetuity. But, ladies, these sneers and sarcasms are, after all, but so many acknowledgments of our power, and should and will stimulate us into braver assertions, to more persistent effort toward thorough and harmonious organization; and concert and harmony are all that we need to make this enterprise, ultimately, a great power for good. Indeed, with such women as have already enrolled their names on our list, I, for my part, cannot believe failure possible.

Some of us cannot hope to see great results, for our shadows, are lengthening behind us and gathering before us, and ere long they will meet and close, and the places that have known us, know us no more. But if, when our poor work is done, any of those who come after us shall find in it some hint of usefulness toward nobler lives, and better and more enduring work, we, for ourselves, rest content.

Miss Cary's remarks were warmly applauded by the ladies of the club, of whom there were in all about forty present. A lunch was partaken of, after which, certain business was transacted which we are requested not to publish. Hereafter, ladies wishing to join the club must be proposed and balloted for as in men's clubs. Many of the ladies present were young and distingue, and some of the toilets were superb.

At a late convention of Arkansas editors, held at Jacksonport, it was resolved to charge advertisements by the inch, instead of by the "square."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JUNE 1.

Grant's Letter of Acceptance.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The following is Gen. Grant's reply to the nomination of the Chicago Convention:

WASHINGTON, May 29.

GEN. JAS. R. HAWLEY, President of National Union Republican Convention: In formally accepting the nomination of the National Union Republican Convention of the 21st, it seems proper that some statement of my views, beyond the mere acceptance of the nomination, should be expressed. The proceedings of the Convention were marked with wisdom, moderation and patriotism, and I believe express the feelings and greatness of those who sustained the country through its trials. I endorse the resolutions. If elected to the office of President of the United States, it will be my endeavor to administer all laws in good faith and with economy, and with a view to giving peace, quiet and protection everywhere. In times like the present it is impossible and improper to lay down a policy, to be adhered to right or wrong, through an administration of four years. New political issues, not foreseen, are constantly arising. The views of the public on the old ones are constantly changing. Purely administrative officers should always be left to execute the will of the people, which I have always respected and always shall. Peace and universal prosperity, its sequence, with economy of administration, will lighten the burden of taxation, while it constantly reduces the national debt. Let us have peace. With great respect, your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT.

Domestic Market.

Flour—Sale of 400 bbls Oregon at $6 25. The market is quite firm, at a slight advance. We revise the quotations for city brands as follows: Superfine hf sks, $6 37½@6 50; qr sks $6 62½@6 75; extra hf sks $7 25@7 50; qr sks $7 50@7 75.

Wheat—Prices of choice samples advanced from $2 30 yesterday morning, to $2 50 in the evening, in consequence of the competition between the distillers and millers. The lots offered are small and scattered, and the above advance therefore is not remarkable, though it was generally unexpected. Sales include about 1,500 sks, in lots, at $2 35@2 50. During the forenoon to-day $2 50 was offered for a quantity of 2,000 sks choice Santa Clara.

Barley—Sales include 500 sks feed at $1 75@1 85; 400 sks do at $1 82½; 900 sks do at $1 87½; 600 sks do at $190. The nominal range of the market for good feed to extra choice brewing, is $1 85@1 95.

Oats—Sale 1,000 sks ex steamer, private: market firm at $2 20@2 40.

[From the Walla Walla Statesman.]

Murder and Suicide.

One of those terrible tragedies which occasionally startle and astonish mankind, occurred on the Walla Walla, about seven miles below town, on Tuesday last. The principal actor in the tragedy was a man named J. D. Kincheloe, who has always borne the reputation of being a quiet and industrious citizen. Mr. K. came to this valley in 1860 or '61, having emigrated from Arkansas. Soon after his arrival he married a young lady named Estes, who came out in the same train with himself, and whose parents live on Dry Creek. He and his wife are understood to have lived together happily until a few months since, when the demon jealousy entered his breast and destroyed the happiness of their home. The immediate occasion of the disturbance was a young man named John Miller, who is now in Blackfoot. In February last, the quarrel had gone so far that a separation became necessary, and the wife returned to her father's house. Kincheloe took charge of the three children, and with them made his home at the house of Mr. Morris, the scene of the tragedy. After the separation we believe there had been no meeting between the parties until Tuesday morning, when the wife went to Morris' house for the purpose of seeing her children. While there she expressed a desire to see their father, and whilst waiting for this purpose he returned from town, where he had been to transact some business previous to starting for Boise. On entering the house his first expression was to ask his wife, "What she was doing there?" Mrs. Morris, who was present, did not hear any reply to the question. The husband immediately took a small stick and commenced beating his wife about the head and breast, when she broke and ran out of the back door. The enraged man then went to his desk and took out a revolver and followed her into the yard, where the work of death was completed. The first ball he fired struck her in the arm and passing up lodged near the shoulder. The second appears to have been better aimed, the ball passing directly through the head, caused almost instant death. He then appears to have shot himself directly through the heart. Mr. Berry, who was teaching school near by, heard the screams of the woman and the reports of the pistol, and at once hastened to the scene. When he got there the man was still in death and the woman was breathing her last. Neither of them spoke after the shooting. The deceased had his team all ready to start for the mines, and the murder and suicide is believed to have been the result of sudden frenzy—caused by the sight of his wife—rather that the result of premeditation. We understand that the deceased had threatened to kill Miller if ever he met him, but beyond this had not indulged in threats. The murdered wife was rather a delicate woman, aged about 24 years, and leaves a father and mother and other relatives living on Dry Creek. Kincheloe was a vigorous man, aged about 30, and as already stated had the reputation of being a steady industrious man. This terrible tragedy should convey a lesson to the thoughtless and imprudent who are only too prone to indulge in flirtations that bring in their train the destruction of domestic happiness.

On the 18th of March last a large number of prominent Republicans of Alabama, among whom were many of the members elect to the Legislature, assembled at Montgomery in that State, for the purpose of devising means for the immediate admission of the State to the Union. A committee of nine was appointed to act in connection with the State Executive Committee. Those committees appointed a sub committee to visit Washington and secure the admission of the State to the Union, or failing in that, to ascertain the true construction of Mr. Spalding's bill providing for the admission of the State, which has already passed the House; also to secure the removal of disabilities from all persons who may have engaged in rebellion, but have since united with the loyal men in aiding reconstruction. The members of this committee have arrived in Washington, and begun work. They seem especially hostile to Gov. Patton of Alabama, who, they charge, has acted unfairly, and in direct opposition to the wishes of the loyal people of the State.

A London letter writer says: "My friend Smith, hitherto an excellent fellow, dined the night before last with a Duke. Yesterday when I met him, he adopted a tone which nearly froze me to the marrow, until by a singular stroke of good fortune, a noble Earl of my acquaintance passed me on the opposite side of the street, and nodded to me, by which merciful chance I was immediately restored to Smith's favor. This is neither an imaginary nor an exceptional instance. It happens every day to some one or other here in London. Dine with a great man and none of your former friends are good enough for you afterward."

ALTHOUGH MANY PERSONS ARE exceedingly hard to please, particularly in matters of dress, yet it is now generally conceded that no lady or gentleman, however fastidious they may be, can thoroughly examine the splendid stock of Dress Goods and Clothing, now offered so cheap at KOHN & FISHEL'S, No. 91 Front street, without finding just what they want. Any person can illustrate this fact, simply by trying the experiment.

Whene'er I take my Walks Abroad,
How many poor, miserable, Dyspeptic people I see, who would be healty, and rosy, and happy, if they took PLANTATION BITTERS.

That paragon of preparations for giving tone to the stomach, energy to the torpid liver, a joy to the nervous system, and strength to the muscles.

THE MODE OF VOTING.—The experiences of the election in this city on Monday, seems to have convinced almost everybody that the viva voce mode of voting ought to be abolished as soon as possible and resort had to the old method of voting by ballot. The viva voce mode of voting was adopted by the Democratic Legislature of 1854-5, for the avowed purpose of smoking Democrats out of Know-Nothing wigwams. It was afterward adopted by the constitutional convention of 1857, which declared that "in all elections by the legislative assembly or by either branch thereof, votes shall be given openly or viva voce, and not by ballot, forever; and in all elections by the people votes shall be given openly, or viva voce, until the legislative assembly shall otherwise direct." It will be seen that the legislature has entire control over the matter and may change the method at will by legislative enactment. In all large precincts and especially in cities the viva voce mode is objectionable for two or three reasons. It is too slow, and being slow, it leads naturally to [illegible], jostling, rioting and unfair dealing, not to call it by any harsher name. To illustrate: At all the large precincts of this city, on Monday, there were great crowds of men about the polls and the only way of having [illegible] of order, at all was to form them into line and to require them to vote in the order of their succession in the line. During the entire day these lines were so long, that to enter at the foot and work up to the polls [illegible] from one hour and a half to three hours. Many men could not afford time or had not patience to wait so long, and endure the ribaldry and insults and rioting going on around him. The day finally ended and the polls were closed before the applicants had yet all voted. This is all wrong. While the law should carefully guard the purity of the ballot-box, it should also provide that the circumstances surrounding the polls shall not be of such a character as to lead directly to clamors, rioting and fraud.

WHAT YOU MAY CALL A MAN.—In these days when we are in the humor to employ strong, epithetical words while endeavoring to make others see the point; and when it is a little uncertain what they may say without bringing on an "unpleasantness," it is a matter of some [illegible] to know just how far and in what particular [illegible] "personal allusions" may be indulged in. The [illegible] from a "man of the world," may be used as a [illegible]: Call a man a "puppy," and he'll [illegible] but call him "a sly dog," and you'll rather [illegible] him. Don't call a man a hog, even if he is a bore, [illegible] but you may call him a "fox" or a "coon" with impunity. [illegible] don't like to be called a shark, but you may call him a "queer fish" without offence. Never call [illegible] man lynx-eyed he'll think you are "sarkastic." Call a man a jackass and he'll talk back; but you may call him an "old rat," and it's ten to one he'll ask you to "take suthin." A man who wouldn't [illegible] flattered at being called a cormorant, would smile at being called a "nightowl." Don't offend by calling a man a gosling, but you may call him a "gay [illegible]" without offence. Don't call a man a fool; call him a clever fellow, which amounts to the same thing, and sounds prettier. A man would be well pleased to know that you said he was keen as a razor, yet would object to your calling him a "sharper." To call a man a stone would be considered reflecting on his mental powers, but you may call him a "brick" to his great satis[illegible].

THE EAST SIDE RAILROAD.—The authority upon which we stated yesterday morning that the bark Occident had brought up a locomotive for the east side railroad was in error. The Occident brought no locomotive, but did bring an immense boiler and engine for a saw mill. It is of thirty-five horse power. Mr. Elliott informs us that such preparations have been made for setting it up as will [illegible] them to put it in running order in a very few days.

The grading of the track has now progressed to a point about a mile and a half beyond Milwaukie, with the exception of a short job in a deep cut near Milwaukie. The [illegible] force now employed is about one hundred and sixty men. Mr. Elliott pays a handsome compliment to the Oregon laborers—mostly sons of farmers in the interior—who have thus far been employed. They are good workers and in nearly every case intelligent and trusty in a remarkable degree.

A[illegible] AS A LEVELLER.—A couple of the strangers who have been abiding within our gates for a few days, and who were seen on election day making a great deal of [illegible] with "White man's tickets," and who were [illegible] loudly against niggers as husbands of [illegible] daughters and companions for themselves and [illegible], yesterday, in a saloon kept by [illegible], and begging most piteously for "suthin to [illegible]." They had no money, and the "nigger," the [illegible] hearted wretch, refused to trust or donate the fluid. [illegible] "white men," after a good deal of whining, retired [illegible], with whistles as dry as when they entered.

HOW IS IT? Persons who have lived for many years in North Portland precinct, and may be presumed to [illegible] who are residents and who are not, are confident [illegible] there are not and never were over 240 voters resident [illegible] the precinct. The vote, as returned by the [illegible] evening, shows that for Congressman 321 [illegible] cast for [illegible] 203 votes were cast. Several persons well known and who are as truthful and reliable as [illegible] living, affirm that more than one hundred of [illegible] who voted at North Portland, cannot be [illegible] the residents of the Precinct. Where did they come from and where have they gone?

PAINTINGS OF OREGON SCENERY.—Mr. Elliot informs [illegible] Mr. Keith, of San Francisco, a young man whom the Bulletin pronounces the most talented artist on the [illegible] coast, will arrive here by the next steamer, for the purpose of painting several pictures of Oregon [illegible]. Mr. Elliot has employed him to paint ten pictures [illegible] for him, the greater part of them to be of localities [illegible] by the artist himself. Mr. Elliott will select one point, a short distance above this city, and one or two on the Columbia river. He proposes to use them, [illegible], at the East, to acquaint the people with Oregon [illegible].

[illegible].—The great jubilating torchlight procession [illegible] by the Democracy to take place last evening [illegible] to the evening of Saturday [illegible]. A leading and "sometimes eloquent" Democratic [illegible] we inquired the reason for the postponement [illegible] that the boys had run so late the night [illegible] that they were too tired to come out again last [illegible]. Being freely translated, this means that so [illegible] of the species were still fuddled with election whiskey [illegible] impossible to get an imposing array upon [illegible] for the occasion.

[illegible] AT MILWAUKIE.—We hear that an altercation [illegible] yesterday morning between a resident of the town and one of the railroad hands, during which the latter shot at the former, with a gun, the [illegible] the man's head. The assailed [illegible] upon the assailant, took the gun away [illegible] and with it, killed him instantly. We have [illegible] a different version which states that there was [illegible] and [illegible] hurt.

[illegible] OREGON CITY.—A considerable delegation of Democrats from Oregon City came down on one of the steamers last evening, to join in the Democratic circus, of the [illegible] of which they had not heard. They re[illegible] their allegiance, looking through the bottom of a [illegible], and returned to Oregon City without having [illegible].

PORTLAND LIBRARY.—The following new books have been received at the Portland Library: Human Life in [illegible], by [illegible] Brick Pomeroy's two new books, [illegible] and Nonsense. This latter addition will, no [illegible] an attraction, under the present state of things, [illegible] of people who have never taken kindly to the library.

[illegible], JUDGE.—The June term of the County Court opened yesterday morning. The only [illegible] tried was in the case of Mann, Schloth and [illegible] vs. J. B. Wallace, in which judgment was rendered [illegible] for $204 in coin and $230 in legal [illegible]. The Court then adjourned.

[illegible].—Late on Monday evening, some mischievously [illegible] set fire to the fence in front of J. [illegible] residence. It had first been saturated with [illegible]. It was discovered, however, and the flames [illegible] before any damage was done beyond [illegible].

PRODUCE.—The following were the arrivals of [illegible] yesterday: Per steamer Senator, 20 sacks feed, 1 boxes eggs and 1 box butter. Per Alert, 1,257 sacks [illegible], 143 sacks feed, 4 cases and 2 bales woolens, 2 [illegible] and 3,000 hoop poles.

[illegible] TELEGRAPH.—We learn that the Portland and [illegible] telegraph is up and in working order to a point within eleven miles of Dalles City, and that it will be [illegible] to the Dalles about next Saturday.

[illegible].—The steamship Continental is advertised to [illegible] for San Francisco, on Thursday next at 6 o'clock P. M.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—The County Commissioners will meet to-day for the transaction of county business.

[illegible] MESSAGE.—Message uncalled for in the telegraph office for John McGinely.

[illegible] SUMMER HATS.—The Express Hats seem to be [illegible], and since this fine weather has set in than [illegible]; also the Neglige and Long Branch Hats, of [illegible] have just received a new lot.

THE BROADWAY STYLES OF BOYS' HATS received per last [illegible], and for sale by J. A. Daly, 103 Front street.

TO [illegible] IN WANT OF PHOTOGRAPHS, we would say that now is a first-rate time to visit Buchtel's Gallery, where the latest and finest styles may be had—J. H. Montgomery, operator.

[illegible].—Those stylish Summer Suits, direct from New York, and for sale by Wm. Currier & Co., 103 Front street.

PORTLAND, OREGON, May 29th, 1868.

W. W. RAPPLEYE—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in stating that I regard your Map of Oregon the most accurate that I have seen published, and in fact the only one that gives anything like a correct idea of Eastern Oregon and its surroundings.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
Your ob't serv't,
GEORGE CROOK,

It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common plates. Call and see specimens.

A THRILLING INCIDENT

In the mission life of Mrs. Ingalls, in Burmah, is well told in the "Baptist Messenger," relating how she was sent for to visit one of the Budhist high priests, who had been nearly killed; and how, while in the most holy place in their temple, where none but the priests had ever before been admitted, she was permitted unrebuked to use for him the sacred vessels, which none but the high priest dare touch, and to even overturn and sit on one of their gods to rest; all through the magic influence of the Pain Killer, called by them the "God medicine," so successfully had she used it in curing their many diseases, some of them considered heretofore fatal in that climate, among which were cholera, liver complaint, dyspepsia, the bites of venomous reptiles, &c. This speaks volumes for the Pain Killer.—London Times.

Rev. J. E. Clough, Missionary at Ongole, Southern India, writes:—"We esteem your Pain Killer very highly for scorpion stings, cholera, &c., and cannot very well get along without it."

Rev. I. D. Colburn, Missionary at Tavoy, Burmah, writes, "I shall be happy to assist in extending a knowledge of a remedy so speedy and effectual." ml1dawlm

H. W. SHIPLEY'S

PACIFIC TURBINE WATER WHEEL.

THESE WHEELS EXCEL ANY OTHER WHEEL in use, and are no infringement on the Leffel American Turbine, but excel it in every particular.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern:—One A. Myers is publishing and circulating a statement that my wheel is an infringement on the Leffel wheel, and he will "prosecute said infringement to the utmost extent of the Law." His statements are not worth a denial. His game is "Bluff," which, if he would only take the case to Court, would soon be played out. Don't believe him!

I would be glad to get a case into the United States Court and get a decision. That would forever stop the mouth of Myers and his misrepresentations. The legal opinions of more reputable lawyers than Dodge & Munn and A. Myers have pronounced my patents no infringement on the American Turbine. H. W. SHIPLEY.

SIXTH INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

OF THE

Mechanics' Institute,

SAN FRANCISCO.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE MECHANICS' Institute hereby give notice that the Sixth Industrial Exhibition of that Association will be held some time in August next, in a building to be erected for the purpose in Union Square in this city. Every preparation will be made to accommodate exhibitors and visitors with a view to make the Exhibition profitable, instructive and pleasant to all parties.

During the three years which have intervened since the holding of the last Exhibition in this city the manufacturing, mechanical, scientific and useful and ornamental arts have made unprecedented progress on this coast, and it is believed that the proposed Exhibition will exceed any other in value that has ever been held on the shores of the Pacific.

The plan of building to be erected, which has been adopted by the Board of Directors, it is believed will prove to be the best adapted, both for display and convenience of the public, of any building ever erected in the State. The building will be perfectly water-tight, being covered with a shingle roof, so that no damage from the elements can be anticipated.

All parties who are interested in any of the branches of Manufactures, Mechanics, or the Arts and Sciences are invited to exhibit in the proposed Exhibition, and to share in the publicity and consequent profit which always attends such enterprises. Suitable premiums will be offered, and the specific date of opening the Exhibition will be published at some future time.

By order of the Board of Directors.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and Billious Remittent Fevers; Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water; Invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels; Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

The Millionaires of New York

HOW THEY MAKE AND KEEP THEIR MONEY

T. W. (Thurlow Weed) contributed to the Galaxy for May the following interesting article

Nothing marks the high civilization of the day more surely than an intense desire to be millionaires. Every man believes he ought to be one, and many men, for a time, at least, believe they can be. A cold blooded inspection of this vital question may enable us to see what we are about, and it may, too, teach us how this blissful result can be accomplished.

An examination of the tax books of New York city (for 1866 7) shows that already ten men own one tenth of the taxable property of the city as follows

Wm. B Astor	$16 11 000
Wm C Rhinelander	7 4 000
A T Stewart	6 0ll 000
Peter and Robert Goelet	4 41 000
James Lenox	3,200 000
Peter Lorillard (since dead)	3 24 000
John David Wolfe	3 2 000
M M Hendricks	1 15 000
Rufus L Lord	1 54 000
C V S Roosevelt	1 34 000
Total	$51 1 8 [illegible]

The total taxable property in this same year was $435 442,012 So that it appears that ten men already own about one tenth of all, and one hundred men might own the whole of the city had their fathers and they done as these have done. The highest tax paid on the list amounted to $368 140, and the lowest to $22 570 Either of them very pretty fortunes in most quarters of the habitable globe Together, these ten paid taxes to the amount of $1,182 326

To help the non millionaire to understand this thing fully, it is well to say that these figures of fifty-one and a half millions of dollars represent, at least, one hundred and three millions of actual property, and, probably, one hundred and fifty millions, because hardly any of this property is rated at more than one half of its merchantable value, and of very much less than that So that we may estimate Mr. Astor to be worth, in real estate alone, over $32,000,000, and Mr Roosevelt, over $2,700,000. For myself I believe those fortunes are three times the taxed values

It is curious to observe that, out of the two most persistent, thrifty money getting tribes—Yankees, pure and simple, and Jews—come but one each of this ten. The other eight are Four from the great Germanic races, two from the Huguenot French, and two from the Scotch or Scotch Irish.

The Germanic race has great industry and persistence, not much vivacity or enterprise, but vast capacity for holding on, and it will appear in the progress of this story, what a valuable faculty this is The French race is the most alert, vivacious in the world, but has not succeeded in trade when pitted against the German and Saxon. One of our Gallic families, however, has not been surpassed The Scotch (and the North Irish are the same) are canny—that is, they are wary skilful, pertinacious, they have a hand to grasp and to hold unequaled among the sons of men

It has taken two generations to produce eight of these millionaires—two only, Stewart and Lord; having been the architects of their own fortunes. We find the Astor estate to be the result of the traffic of John Jacob Astor with the Indian tribes through some half a century This he seems to have begun almost immediately upon landing on the shores of the New World in 1783 and to have prosecuted with a vigor and assiduity which never tired. Astor had three things—health, a money getting faculty and an organizing faculty. Mr Astor was a knowing man Buying his furs cheap he took them or sent them to Europe and to China, and sold them dear He bought teas and other productions cheap, and those he again sold dear—as dear as he could. But, no doubt, his main profits came from his dealings with the Indians In other words, he organized the North American fur trade, so that it should make money for himself, not the Indians; and did it—did it largely. In due time he had money to invest, and then his sagacious money making faculty told him that New York was destined to become a great commercial city, and that real estate, judiciously bought must increase its value. He bought, and he bought largely. This appetite grew with what it fed on and the power to do it grew vastly with the growing millions, and thus it went on for sixty five years, until in 1848 he was gathered to his fathers, leaving an estate to his son estimated at twenty millions, a legacy of $400,000 to the city to found a library, and an annuity of $200 a year to the poet Halleck !

Our present millionaire, then, inheriting his twenty millions, had a task before him He was on one side in a great fight, all mankind on the other, his struggle was to keep theirs to get. He has beaten them. No person has ever been able to inveigle him into any trade or speculation or enterprise of any kind soever He has kept what he had, and he has invested in securities which paid him 4 per cent , or 6 per cent , or 7 per cent., or he has bought more and more real estate. He has never been tempted by high interests or promising profits to take any risk at all This is his secret—this is the way that his twenty millions have become sixty or eighty, and this is the whole of it. You who propose to become a millionaire, have only to remember that Mr Astor's twenty million, by the sure increase of compound interest, became forty at the end of ten years, and eighty at the end of twenty years; and it is now twenty years since he inherited his twenty millions You have only to inherit twenty millions, and do as he has done, and you will be just as rich and great as he is.

The career of our Rhinelander millionaire has been essentially the same. He, too, inherited the beginning of his fortune, for the Rhinelander pere was as lucky or so wise, as to own a farm along the East river, on Manhattan Island Having the supreme faculty, also, of holding on it came to his children of whom our millionaire is the most distinguished representative. He, too, has had his struggle to keep, and to get more, and he has succeeded so that he now holds "lots innumerable, from Thirt th street to 131st street," and vast properties in Brodway, Park row, Barclay street, etc.

The Goelets rank as one, not because it takes two Goelets to make one man, but because it is said their property is in a good degree is one The Goelets millionaires, too, had an ancestor, who, following the honorable craft of ironmongery, learned in it how to turn iron to gold, and that into city lots. The story goes, that, upon a time, they found themselves cramped for pasture for their cow, and, to accommodate her, they bought a pasture lot of some forty or fifty acres, for a trifle. They held on, even after the old cow died and that pasture lot now is covered with brick and stone all along Fifth, Lexington and Fourth avenues, and the Goelets still own it. The only wasteful extravagance ever charged upon "Young Peter" has been a lavish expenditure for peacocks and pheasants, which are alleged never to have produced anything at all The rest of his property has been amazingly productive

Thirty five years ago Robert Lenox was one of the four rich men of New York, following Mr Astor The other three were John G Coster, Stephen Whitney and Nathaniel Prime The Lenox estate has grown and become vast—the others are scattered or divided. This Lenox fortune begins as far back as the American revolution, when, in connection with the Commissary Department, the shrewd, prudent careful, indefatigable Scotsman began to accumulate wealth he went steadily forward with this great purpose of his life until he died, in 1839, leaving millions to his heirs

The present millionaire, James Lenox, has never made money, and has never attempted to do so. Indeed, he is the only one, and the only one of our rich men who, it is claimed, makes it a matter of conscience not to add house to house and lay field to field It is asserted that every year he dispenses his vast income in his own ways, but that he scrupulously avoids reinvesting it And yet, in spite of himself, he grows richer and richer, thus Years ago his father was obliged to take a piece of property, far beyond civilization to satisfy a mortgage of some eleven or thirteen thousand dollars. He held on, and James Lenox held on Now it is on the east side of Central Park about Seventieth street—six blocks of the most desirable property in the city, and of which Mr Lenox has sold to the amount of three quarters of a million, and has enough left to make over a million

We come now to another class of men of wealth those who have inherited and who have made money

The Lorillards have in their veins both French [illegible] blood [illegible] it has been said that "there never was a poor Lorillard " Appearances seem to indicate that there never will be one Wealth [illegible] property, if not increase, seems to be contagious The immense estate is now some seventy years old, or, as far away as 1810 P & G Lorillard were very rich, and never gave a [illegible] and when George died his estate was estimated at $2,000,000. Tobacco did the work. They have lived with tobacco, and have learned to know it in all its phases, in all its forms They know the richest Abajo and the palest Wethersfield, they know how and when and where the fragrant leaf of the tropic may best wed the faint or weed of New England, and the lusty growth of Kentucky Factories have grown up where this strangy plant could be ground and dried and shaped and bottled and papered so as to make it delectable to man and profitable to him who thus ministers to his needs

Let us here make an approximate calculation as to what this business amounts to in each year There are some eight millions of men between the ages of fifteen and ninety in the United States Let us suppose that three quarters, or six millions use tobacco to the extent of but $20 per year each The result is $100 000 000 Of this forty per cent is profit It follows, then, that $40,000,000 of profit is to be the portion of somebody Now, the Lorillards have taken good care to get their portion of this, first, by producing a good article second by selling as low as the rest and third, by advertising it thoroughly

Just how many millions have been thus added to the great estate, we have no means of knowing, and Mr Lorillard's recent departure forbids to inquire

Mr Wolfe not only inherited a good fortune, but his business doubled it, and his marriage to a Lorillard tripled it

Mr Hendricks, also inherited wealth and by assiduity and care he has greatly added to it Copper did the work for him

Mr Roosevelt inherited $400 000 many years ago when the possessor of $100 000 was a very rich man He attended to his business and ate the bread of carefulness, nevertheless He grew richer and richer, and having money to invest, he seized upon good property in the city of New York He always saw after the interest account never let it run against him, and his purchases were always made with this in view How much is luck, how much prescience in this world, who can say? His purchase, some forty years ago, of the Broadway front, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, for some $25,000 results now in a million.

We come at last to the two men on the list who inherited nothing, but who have become millionaires through their own right hands One of these is Yankee, pure and simple, the other is Scotch Irish

Mr. Lord was born poor ; he will die rich. He came to New York because in New York were possibilities greater than in New England He learned the business of merchant, and worked in it indefatigably, in those days when it was more possible for a poor man to grow rich than it is now. By and by he got his machine started, and grist came to his mill, which he ground to his own profit. Dry goods are of more universal use than even tobacco, and therefore present opportunities for great fortunes

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern I hereby give notice that the so-called " Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel " is a direct infringement and copy of the James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel and its manufacture at Los estrictly prohibited Any person or persons making, using constructing or vending said Water Wheels make themselves liable to heavy damages and penalties Parties interested will take notice that I shall prosecute said infringements to the utmost extent of the law

That all may know I mean what I say and am not playing bluff, I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States

WASHINGTON, D C , April 17 1868

" Mr A MYERS In accordance with your request we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels, and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel patents In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets precisely as Leffel does, and in this he clearly infringes The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in a third tier used by Leffel does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement at all He has no right to use those two tiers of buckets whether alone or with a third, or any other number of tiers added It is a clear infringement Respectfully yours,

DODGE & MUNN

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on our Patents whether it is the maker user buyer or seller Every infringement, whether our claims are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted

INSTITUTE.

* CONSULTATIONS IN ALL CASES, FREE*

* CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.*

* IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRECY MAINTAINED.*

The above rules, established by Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, and which have done so much to secure the reputation of the Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity give assurance of proper delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with the insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.
